

a contractor to provide that building, and Senator Hannibal decides with his home building company that he is going to bid on that, and he bids on it, and his price to provide that building is $40,000, under this requirement, we will still...under this measure, we will still be requiring a performance bond from him. On the other hand, if they decide that they are going to build it themselves with their own personnel and all they are going to do is purchase the material, and they go up to Herman, Nebraska and they purchase material from one of the finest lumberyards in the State of Nebraska in Herman, Nebraska, and the contract is to provide $20,000 worth of lumber, rather than making Senator Korshoj provide a bond to say that that material will be delivered on time in good form, they may require other types of securities. I think this is a good compromise. Again, it was a concept I was not terribly supportive of originally, but I am willing to allow this type of relaxation on the bonding requirements in order to allow some of these smaller businesses, particularly in outstate Nebraska, to get a little better share of the business that the counties are requiring. I urge you to adopt the amendment.
